

Education System and Its Future in America Conference

Session 15: The Future of Higher Education

This session will explore the future of higher education in America. Participants will learn about emerging trends, challenges, and opportunities in the higher education landscape.

Presentation 1: Emerging Trends in Higher Education

This presentation will highlight emerging trends in higher education, such as online learning, competency-based education, and the increasing focus on lifelong learning. The implications of these trends for students, educators, and institutions will be discussed.

Presenter: Dr. Karen Anderson

Presentation 2: Addressing Challenges in Higher Education

This presentation will explore the various challenges facing higher education today, including issues of access, affordability, and student success. Strategies for addressing these challenges and ensuring the sustainability of higher education institutions will be shared.

Presenter: Dr. Robert Taylor